Miss Mason Resigns Student Council Post

Student Council Tuesday approved sophomore Frank M. Miller Jr. as Commissioner of Special Activities, after Dolores Mason resigned for "health reasons."

Miss Mason submitted her resignation last Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the council Executive Board.

She cited her health and heavy involvement with other school activities as reasons for resigning.

Miss Mason, a sophomore, is editor of Del Ano yearbook and president of Las Meninas. She was last year's "Woman of the Year."

The new commissioner is president of College Players, and treasurer of the Associated Men Students. He is an English major.

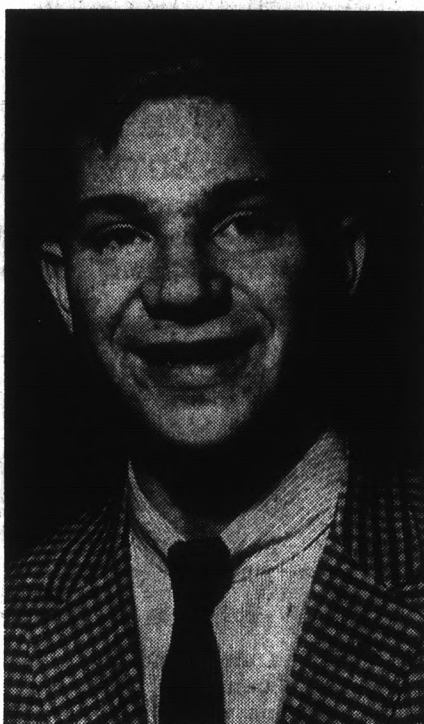

In other action:

—Inter-Club-Council President Dave Hughes reported that homecoming was "very successful" and that "everyone did a good job."

—Copies of the new proposed constitution were distributed, and Bob Grant reported the government revision committee is analyzing the constitution and is in the process of proposing by-laws.

—Council approved the transfer of $17.72 from the Tavern Tattlers to the Tavern Post account.

count. The transfer was delayed last week, when it was discovered that Tavern Tattlers has not existed as a club for several years. —Treasurer Mike Conklin said football ticket sales for last Saturday night's homecoming game with Fullerton only amounted to $1276. Anticipated sales were $4500. He added that 94 tickets were sold for the homecoming dance.

Miss Cook, sponsored by Circle K, was crowned by last year's queen, Wanda Dorman, after Associated Student Body President Dan Weaver announced the winner.

POLICE SAY CROSSWALK "A HAZARD"

A Santa Ana Police official said late Wednesday that a mid-block crosswalk on 17th St. would create a hazard "worse than we have at the present time."

Sgt. Charles S. Ryel, traffic division, said in his opinion, "a mid-block crosswalk on a street where cars travel at 35 miles per hour or faster would create a cement barrier forcing autos to come to a grinding halt."

Ryel said the speed limit and conditions on 17th St. make the idea of a mid-block crosswalk not feasible. He also stressed that a crosswalk would be useless if Richard Honer ever decided that students should not be allowed to park in Honer Plaza while attending classes.

Any authority for a crosswalk would come from the Santa Ana Department of Public Works, he explained.

ing clubs are Carole Bouchard, Newman Club; Monika Saager, Young Writers; Hazel Williamson, Greeks; and Connie Wright, Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

Saturday's football game saw the queen and her court introduced to the spectators during the half time show. The five girls were driven around the stadium field in golf carts, which were provided by the Greeks and decorated by the clubs sponsoring the queen candidates.

Clouding the week-end of homecoming festivities was Fullerton's victory over SAC, 27-0.

NOON DANCE A FLOP SAYS COMMISSIONER

Social commissioner Melinda Mitchell told council Tuesday that she'll discourage any club from sponsoring a noon dance, after labeling last Thursday's dance a "complete failure."

"When I took office, I was determined to make noon dances a success. The first noon dance this year was a mediocre success. But last Thursday's was a complete failure," Miss Mitchell said.

"I think this shows a definite feeling of apathy and I'm tired of it. If I hear of any organization wanting to put on a noon dance, I will discourage them," she said.

A Queen's Success Story

Kathy Cook's Rise From Obscurity

By GARY LYCAN
El Don Feature Editor

She has a soft, enticing voice. Her emphasis on school-work is attested to by the fact she never has participated in major campus activities. In short, she's not the Homecoming Queen type.

Yet, she won. And almost overnight, slim, attractive Kathy Cook came out of virtual obscurity to reign as queen over a college population embracing more than 5000 students.

"I don't recall anything that happened after the crowning," smiled the 20-year-old, blonde beauty. "I guess you could say I went into a semi-state of shock."

Miss Cook's victory in the Homecoming race did surprise many Dons who felt that an unknown didn't have a chance to wear the stately crown.

"I suppose this was an advantage. All week long, people would come up to me and say they voted for me, but they were positive that someone else was actually going to win," she blushed.

How does a coed rise from obscurity to ascend the throne of Homecoming Queen?

"It all began in social dance class. Tom Polk, Circle K president, asked if I would enter the contest with another coed representing the club. Our names were submitted, and I later learned they selected me to represent Circle K."

Up until four weeks ago, the shapely coed was practically unknown at SAC. She hasn't joined any clubs to date, limiting her activities to the college choir and homework.

"I'm carrying a heavy unit load and decided there was no time for outside activities. I've always felt it's important to concentrate on assigned studies more than extra-curricular activities."

A social science major, she frowns on going steady and dismisses the subject of marriage. "I haven't even thought about marriage, but I suppose anything could happen if the right man comes along."

She originally planned to enter SAC in September, 1961, but postponed it when she and some friends decided "on the spur of the moment" three weeks before high school ended to attend a beauty school for a year in Hutchinson, Minnesota.

Her parents financed the venture, which she recalls today as a real awakening to the problems encountered in life.

"We worked an eight-hour day six days a week. I half-loved and half-hated the experience. We had to cater to women who would constantly complain about their hair-dos, or who would rearrange their hair after we finished setting it."

"At any time, we felt as if we might be cast out in the cold, cruel world," she added.

Her interest in social science and psychology stemmed from a session "that lasted until nearly three in the morning" with a beauty school student who had suffered a nervous breakdown.

"I really became interested in people's problems. I often tend to analyze someone without realizing it," she laughed.

A Harry Conover modeling student, she would like to serve as a beauty counselor, helping students with makeup tips and hair problems.

She said she prefers California living, but learned to "appreciate the simple life in Minnesota when we led a carefree life and enjoyed banana splits at 11 p.m."

SAC's new queen plans to increase her college activities. She does admit to some insecurity since her family may move to another state. Last night, she climaxed a hectic week competing in the Miss Santa Ana contest.

Miss Cook's victory seems to dampen any thoughts about a "social clique" ruling campus. If anything, her rise to the throne is an inspiration to any qualifying coed who aspires to be Homecoming Queen.

AN EDITORIAL . . .

Was It A Homecoming?

Several members of student council took offense to last week's comment in the "People" column that nothing was done to receive returning alumni at homecoming.

Homecoming, as defined by Webster, is "in many colleges and universities, an annual celebration attended by alumni."

SAC's celebration consisted of a dance—attended by a handful of alumni, and a football game, with an entertaining half-time program.

Reactions varied on the half-time program, and the use of golf carts to drive queen Kathy Cook and her court around the bowl. As one observer put it, "The girls made a better appearance on their miniature golf-cart thrones than they would have perched on car fenders. Attention was focused on the girls, and not shiny cars."

Considering that cars are not allowed on the floor of municipal bowl, those who planned and carried out the half-time program did exceedingly well.

Realizing that many clubs spent hours preparing decorations and details for the dance and game, El Don gave them front page recognition for two weeks. And ICC President Dave Hughes—elected just a month ago—put in many hours coordinating the various jobs of clubs.

But in the end, what was homecoming? Basically, it was a dance, an opportunity to crown a queen, and a football game.

That was fine, as far as it went. But homecoming suffered from lack of follow-through. By contacting the SAC public relations office, an ICC representative would have been directed to a list of alumni.

In the interests of constructive criticism, El Don suggests that the ICC president should be elected earlier in the year, so as to have more time to organize and plan for homecoming, since the celebration is ICC's major activity.

El Don also suggests that those planning next year's celebration seriously ask themselves, "What is a homecoming?" Then follow through with an event fitting of the title.

'Miss Santa Ana' Takes Bitter With The Sweet

While one queen was crowned a week ago tonight, another Santa Ana College coed was nearing the end of a year-long reign that climaxed last night with the naming of a new "Miss Santa Ana."

Marcia Hartwell, 19-year-old sophomore, ended a year-long public relations position for the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce which, she said, "promised that I would be doing a lot more than I really did."

"It was really a very slow year, not as active as in previous years. The real highlight of my entire reign was riding at the front of the televised Santa Ana Christmas parade," she recalls.

"A thing of beauty may be a joy forever," but with the possible exception of beauty contests. Miss Hartwell recalled one rather bitter memory when she volunteered to turn in her trophy after she saw the first princess officiating at a ceremony as "Miss Santa Ana."

"They're just disorganized," sighed the beauty queen, but she added that she did enjoy her year's reign.

She prefers living in Laguna Beach where she has her own car and apartment, although her legal residence is her parents' home in Santa Ana.

"If I had a choice, I'd rather live in Laguna the rest of my life," she smiled.

Measuring 37½-24-35, the athletic blonde would like to continue studies at the University of Hawaii as a business major. She enjoys skiing, swimming, skin diving and body surfing.

In January, she plans to enter the Waves and attend three weeks of boot camp in Omaha, Nebraska, Miss Hartwell said she would study photography and medicine.

"When I won Miss Santa Ana, I decided not to compete for the Laguna title. If I had to do it all over again, I probably would have stayed in the Miss Laguna contest. It's the place I really love."

They're Paid To Learn In SAC Merchandising

Thirty SAC students are being paid to learn.

They are in the second year of a state supported program consisting of a merchandising seminar and supervised work experience that provides employment in more than a dozen selected local firms.

Instructor Richard Bartoo's lecture course considers problems encountered by the student in his employment situation, while on-the-job training provides the actual experience.

MANAGING TRAINEES

Bartoo said that local firms have expressed interest in graduates of the merchandising program as "managing trainees." Such positions would include assistant buyers and managers, bridal consultant, fashion coordinator, head of stock and assistant director in display advertising.

It offers work experience for both day and evening students, provides a minimum of 15 hours per week on the job at the normal rate of pay for the particular work involved.

MANY DONS EMPLOYED

Firms participating in the program include Montgomery Ward, Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream, Patton's Market, Tustin Theater, Davis Stationery and Smith Printers.

Dede Ara and Chris Tolomeo are two Don coeds employed at Newberry's in Honer Plaza; John Menton gains experience at Montgomery Wards; Bill Bean works at Baskin-Robbins; and Wally Huntoon assists at Luken's Dairy.

SERVES DUAL PURPOSE

"Cooperation of the college and the community has been outstanding," stressed Bartoo. "In fact, our only problem has been finding interested students."

SAC's program is designed to serve a dual purpose. Students become prepared for successful careers in merchandising and employers are supplied with a source of trained employees and potential executive trainees.

People

SAC's "Ugly Man" came in at deadline Wednesday to be interviewed.

"Your name is James 'Slimy' Estes, correct?"

"Right."

"How did you get the nickname of Slimy?"

"No comment."

"What courses are you taking at Santa Ana College?"

"Snackbar 71, English and P.E. That's 3 1/2 units. I'm on a limited schedule because I haven't received my high school transcripts yet."

"Where did you go to high school?"

"Judge High School in Salt Lake City."

"How do you spell that Judge?"

"Like 'Judge. That'll be $20.'"

"How does it feel to be elected 'Ugly Man'?"

"It's a numbing experience. I can only thank my ex-friends for this great honor."

"What did you do before you came to SAC?"

"I was in the Army National Guard Special Forces. I was stationed at Ft. Ord, Ft. Knox — like in gelatin — and Ft. Benning. I got to be private E-2 in six months. Then they laid my discharge on me and I hippity hopped off to Buffalo."

Jim told us he's a jazz buff and a fan of Playboy. After he completes college, he wants to get into the growing missile industry as a draftsman. Incidentally, he takes the "Ugly Man" title as a backhanded compliment.

JAMES ESTES

James Estes Elected SAC's 'Ugly Man'

James Estes won last week's "Ugly Man" contest, sponsored by Circle K. He will be presented with an award at tomorrow night's football game with Southwestern.

According to Dennis Weaver, who was in charge of the contest, Estes received 642 votes. Votes were made in the form of one-cent contributions.

Other winners were Tony (Borge) Freeberg, 612; Harry Monahan, 265; Bob Armstrong, 132; John Hardy, 112; Dave Hughes, 89; Frank Miller, 62; Bob Sweeney, 55; and Dave Weaver, 47.

Money from the contest will go towards a clock for the student union, Weaver said.

tees Wilbur Hartman, Robert Sturgis, Mrs. Charlotte Reiter and Mike Reiter, who got the board's approval for a week of activities in early December. (El Don Photo)

Club Competition to Spark Bill of Rights Observance

Competition between service clubs will be a key factor in SAC's observance of Bill of Rights Week, Dec. 2-6 at SAC.

Mike Reiter, Bill of Rights committee chairman, today announced the competition as a plan to promote interest and enthusiasm among students in what he calls, "the basis of American freedom."

"Clubs will be judged by the committee on how well they generate zeal among the students with their projects for the week," Reiter said. The winning club will receive double the usual number of service points.

Reiter added, "If more students and citizens were aware of their personal rights and responsibilities, then they would realize what it means to be an American citizen."

Groups other than service clubs will be participating. The English department will have a theme writing competition. Speech students will present their speeches to junior high and high schools in Santa Ana. The College Players will put on a costumed program for the elementary schools.

A proclamation at the Board of Education meeting Tuesday night announced that the Santa Ana school system will join SAC in observing Bill of Rights Week from Dec. 2-6.

Commemorating it during the official week of Dec. 9-13 would interfere with the confusion of the last few days before Christmas vacation.

Sport Car Club Being Organized

The first sport car club in the history of Santa Ana College is now being organized.

President pro-tem is sophomore Bruce Schroeder. No other officers have been elected, and no adviser has been appointed.

Committees are currently in the process of setting up membership qualifications, writing a constitution, and establishing an activities program.

Four coeds are included in the 35 member roster.

Students interested in joining the club may attend the next meeting which will be held Nov. 19 at 11 a.m. in room A-2.

YR Blues: Prexy Quits; Election This Tuesday

Young Republicans are still trying to find a president to lead them through a troubled first semester, after newly-elected president Gene Bush dropped out of school last Friday to throw the club into turmoil.

Bush replaced Bill Atkinson who resigned in order to train a candidate for the presidency for the second semester. Atkinson had been presiding until the club elected Bush.

Conflicting interests between his work and school studies were the reasons given for Bush resigning and leaving school.

Jean Shea, YR vice president, will probably be nominated for the presidency, according to John Schmitz, adviser. The election will be held in room A-6 at 11 a.m.

New Ski Club Plans Lessons

Membership is rapidly climbing for SAC's reactivated Ski Club, according to Richard White, president.

Approximately 35 students turned out for the club's first official meeting Tuesday night, at White's home.

Other officers include Tom Spalding, vice-president; Charline Wolf, secretary-treasurer; Jack Butler, publicity chairman and Chuck Gibson, transportation chairman.

Group lessons, given by a local sporting goods store, are available for any member interested in learning techniques and skills of snow skiing. Twenty members signed up for the instructions, which will include three dry-land lessons and five lessons in the snow. All required equipment will be included in the price of the lessons.

Any student interested in participating in the Ski Club should check the El Diario for future scheduled meetings.

CC Men Train For EC Decider

After copping two straight invitational meets, Santa Ana College's harrier squad points to next Thursday's Eastern Conference Championship meet at Riverside.

SAC, defending EC cross country champs, warmed up for the big meet by winning the fifth annual Orange Coast College Invitational Meet at Costa Mesa last Friday.

Two weeks ago the Don distance cavalry stole the show at the Aztec Invitational at San Diego State College by coming in 39 points ahead of second-place Fullerton.

Paced by Bob Delaney, the Dons compiled a total team time of 74 minutes, 25 seconds to nip second place San Diego City College at the Pirate meet.

Sterling Jenkins of San Diego CC set a new record by capturing first place in a blazing 14:02.2 over the three mile course. Jenkins time eclipsed De-

Welty Closes Out Season in Dons' Biggest Contest

Sophomore Bob Welty closes out his two years of water polo stardom next week in SAC's biggest game of the year.

For two seasons Welty, a former star poloist and swimmer at Santa Ana High School, has been the key to the tanksters hopes. Last year he set an all time Santa Ana scoring record with 87 goals on his way to becoming Don of the Year. After 12 games this season Welty had 65 goals and was hitting at a .560 clip.

This Friday SAC seeks its seventh straight win of the season against Riverside who they beat earlier 24-5. Next week the Dons close out against tough Chaffey in a battle for third place and a possible playoff bid.

laney's old mark of 14:37.

Delaney led Don runners by placing third behind Jenkins and Carson of San Bernardino in a time of 14:18.

Other Don runners in the top 10 were George Aguirre and Bill Delaney. Aguirre finished ninth in a time of 14:53 and Delaney coming in 10th only one second behind Aguirre.

Intramural Basketball Sign-ups Set Tuesday

After a lopsided football season all intramural participants, with the exception of the Breans, are looking for better team balance during the upcoming basketball schedule.

Adviser to the program, Roger Wilson, has announced that boys interested in forming a team should sign up next Tuesday. Individuals or full teams may show intentions of joining the league on Tuesday.

GAMES NEXT WEEK

Practice games for basketball will begin the same week with the league season expected to start on November 26. League games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11 a.m.

Unless the Matadors pulled the upset of the year, the Breans were crowned champions of intramural football. Going into yesterday's game the Breans had swept four straight opponents, while the Matadors had won two games and tied two others.

A win for the Matadors would throw Round Two into a tie between the Breans and the Bolsa Grande team and force a playoff. If the Breans won they would clearly win Round Two after also winning Round One while going undefeated the entire season.

It's usually hard to win on the road and easier to win at home, but all Santa Ana College head coach Myrel Moore has found at home is trouble.

Southwestern invades the Santa Ana Bowl tomorrow night at 8 and the Dons will be trying to record their first home win in four games.

Santa Ana has dropped three straight contests at the bowl while on the road it has a mark of two wins, two losses and one tie. According to the rule book it should be the reverse with SAC winning at home and having a tough time when away.

As both teams play their final Eastern Conference game of the season they will be attempting to rebound from last week's setbacks. Southwestern was blasted last Saturday 30-7 by neighboring Grossmont, while the Dons were beaten by Fullerton.

Jim Seiveno paces the Apache war party, averaging a shade over four yards per carry. Southwestern ranks ninth in both rushing and total offense with the Dons just a little above the Apaches in both departments.

Last week cross county rival, Fullerton, blanked the Dons 27-0 as the Hornets displayed a potent rushing offense spearheaded by the line plunges of fullback Dick Winn.

Winn carried 35 times for 120 yards and two touchdowns as he led the Hornets to their first triumph over SAC in six years. The Dons defeat produced the first losing season for El Don since 1956.

Winn tallied the Hornets first TD as he capped an 11-play, 48-yard drive by slashing the final two for the six points with 3:59 remaining in the first quarter.

With only 47 seconds remaining in the first half, Winn hit paydirt with a four-yard run. Winn's TD climaxed an 86-yard drive in which he carried 13 times for 52 yards.

Fullerton tallied two points with seven minutes gone in the second half when All-EC end Steve Joyner caught Alex Cervantes in the end zone for a safety.

Quarterback Dennis Estes scored the Hornets third TD as he circled left end from 38 yards out and hit paydirt. Speedster Dave Jacques ran 14 yards for the final Hornet tally making the score 27-0.

Both of the Hornets second half conversion attempts failed.

Wilhelm Pilots SAC Cagemen

When this year's Santa Ana College basketball team takes the floor in its season opener against El Camino College on November 29, a new head coach will be at the helm.

Taking over for Bob Boyd, who is now head coach at Seattle University, is the Dons' new mentor, Bob Wilhelm.

Wilhelm is no stranger to Orange County basketball fans. While heading the Santa Ana High School varsity for more than seven years, Wilhelm gave his rival coaches in the Sunset League plenty of headaches.

Wilhelm's Saint teams compiled a combined record of 114 victories and only 64 defeats. This winning percentage of .640 is respectable in any league, and it brought Wilhelm two Sunset League championships.

Wilhelm played his high school basketball at Washington High School in Los Angeles. After graduating from Washington High, he continued his education at Pepperdine College, where he played two seasons of varsity basketball.

Wilhelm received his Bachelor of Science degree from Pepperdine in 1953 and his Masters degree from the University of Southern California in 1956. After earning his Masters, Wilhelm coached one year at Pepperdine. He then began his successful stint at Santa Ana High following his stay at Pepperdine.
